SOME BRIDGE STATISTICS

Scenes To Be a Difference of Opinion
Among the Commissioners as to When Money Will Be Paid Over for the Dawson Structure.

Special to The Courier.
UNIONTOWN, Aug. 10.—Is the Dawson bridge to be free or not? That is the question that has passed from one person to another about town today. Some are of the opinion that it is a sure thing, but others take a different view of the matter.

Connellsville, W. S. Blaney stated yesterday, "I am in favor of the purchase at once. Now that the purchase of the Bellvernon bridge has been stopped for the present, I see no reason why we should not put the money that was to be used in the payment of this bridge, to use. The right of the Bellvernon bridge people will undoubtedly last over a year and probably longer. Another Commissioner is quoted as saying, "It will be a long time before the Dawson bridge is free." The third member remains silent on the subject.

Following the organization of the Dawson Board of Trade, a committee was appointed to visit the Commissioners in behalf of the purchase. Charles O. Schroyer was chairman, Eddie Hornebeck and George Strelakowski, and the others. The chairman said today that they had talked with the Commissioners, who expressed themselves as willing to buy the bridge whenever satisfactory arrangements could be made with their attorney and the bridge people.

Last Tuesday the Dawson Bridge Company, through their attorney, E. C. Biggs, informed the Court that they were willing to abide with the value placed on their property by the viewers, and would accept the $60,000. The purchase was approved by the Grand Jury last June, and the final step in court was taken by Judge Cimino yesterday, when he made an order holding in escrow approval to the freeing of the bridge. The matter is now up to the Commissioners. It is thought that the question will be settled when it is known whether the company will demand a cash payment or not. When the Commissioners do act, providing there are no legal entanglements, it will take about 15 minutes to remove a burden that has rested on the shoulders of the taxpayers in the vicinity of Dawson for the last 30 years. Up until about a year ago the toll was two cents, at which time the rate was reduced, at which time the rate was reduced.

The Dawson bridge is the only structure in Fayette county that takes toll, now. It was built about 30 years ago, and to today in first class condition. Citizens who have looked the bridge over, are of the opinion that it will need nothing in the line of repair for the next five or six years. Unlike most bridges of this kind, it was built of available iron instead of steel. There are four spans, the roadway is 20 feet wide, and a six foot sidewalk is provided.

The northern is the wealthiest part of Fayette county, and a source from which a heavy tax is derived. As one of the tax payers said yesterday, "If we are getting something back for our money." On the lower side of the river, Dunbar township, Vanderburgh, Franklin township, and the largest part of Perry township will profit by the purchase, while Lower Tyrone township, Dawson borough and part of Perry township on the upper side of the Yough will also be benefited.

The Dawson bridge matter recalls the fact that since January 1, 1905, the Grand Jury has approved, together with the Court, six different bridges that have not been acted on by the Commissioners. These are located as follows: Over Irish Run in Dunbar township; over Brown Run in German township; over Champion Creek in Saltlick township; over Galley Run in Lower Tyrone township; over George's Creek between Nicholson and Springhill townships; and over Pine Creek.

United Press Telegram.
NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—"Big Bill" Edwards who conquered J. J. Gallagher yesterday before he faced at Mayor Gaynor, today received a letter saying he will die within 24 hours. It was signed "Friend of Gallagher." Edwards does not intend to heed the letter, saying it is from "some crank."

Empress Flees;
Dons Male Attire,
But is Taken

United Press Telegram.
BURLIN, Aug. 10.—Abdu Abdala dispatches say the Empress Taita of Abyssinia recently attempted to flee from the capital disguised in male attire, taking with her "troubling it" with her brother, who is Governor of a southern province.

She is suspected of plotting against the life of the boy emperor successor to the deposed Menelik.

Joe Gans Died
This Morning in Baltimore

United Press Telegram.
BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 10.—Joe Gans, former lightweight champion of the world and one of the greatest negro fighters this country has ever known, died this morning at 8:00. He was 30 years old and had been a victim of consumption.

Gans lost the championship to Battie Nelson July 4, 1908, having been knocked out in the 17th round.

MAN KILLS BOY.

Attack on His Son at State
Home in Polk County.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 10.—(Special)—Frank Ober, an inmate of the State Institute for the feeble minded at Polk, today killed Eddie Green, aged 15, with an ax. Ober is Green's son, 15 years old. He came from Butler county.

He is not responsible and is unable even to talk.

Foreigners Held.

UNIONTOWN, Aug. 10.—(Special)—On the arrival of the sheriff, Andy Lamer, Steve Grapineau and Mike Gallik, were held for court last evening by Squire John Doyle. George Strelakowski, the three, alleged that on August 10, the men were held without a hearing that he still feels the effects of it.

Burgess Evans Frowns On Ordinance Proposed to Cover Electric Signs.

Burgess J. F. Evans this morning exercised his veto power on the electric sign ordinance, held over from the previous session of the legislature. Burgess Evans was given a copy of the ordinance following the meeting of the committee last evening. He looked it over and after a few moments announced that he would veto the measure.

Burgess Evans does not approve of that section which permits horizontal signs to be 72 inches high if there is more than one line of letters. He would restrict the height of these signs to 40 inches, regardless of the letter height.

The new ordinance is but slightly different from the one it is to replace. The size of all signs is restricted, but there is no limit as to the number of digits that can be used. Council will likely debate the provisions regarding the size of horizontal signs for there will probably be members to advocate a greater height of sign than 36 inches.

Estate is Worth About Six Thousand Dollars.

UNIONTOWN, Aug. 10.—(Special)—The will of John A. Mack, who died in Tarenton July 29, was admitted to probate this morning. The wife, Elizabeth A. Mack, is named executrix. She is given $1,000 and $100 to care for the estate, the residue to be equally divided among the five children.

The will was made June 13 last. Mack's estate is valued at about $6,000.

A New Third Track.
It has been officially announced that a third track will shortly be laid between Pittsburgh and Connellsville by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. There are now long stretches where three and four tracks are laid.

WORKHOUSE MAY COME THIS WAY.

Rumored That Guiler Farm is Wanted for That Purpose by County.

LOCATION WOULD BE GOOD

This End of the County is About Due For Share of Institutions and It May Be the New Workhouse Committee Quietly Investigating.

It is learned on good authority that the county officials are giving serious consideration to the Guiler farm at Morrell as a probable site for the new workhouse which is to be established in the near future. It was originally thought that the officials are looking at the Guiler farm with longing eyes as a probable site for the orphanage home, but later developments would indicate that the workhouse may be located there.

There is no positive assurance that this is the aim in view, but it is declared that the officials are looking with favor towards giving the northern end of the county some of the new improvements talked of.

The Guiler farm is splendidly located; it is convenient to the street car line, and there is sufficient ground available for the needs of the institution.

It is reported that the committee which is quietly investigating the various sites available will look over the Guiler farm within the next few days.

It is said that a determined effort may be made to land the new penal institution somewhere in this vicinity. At present all of the county buildings are located in or adjacent to Uniontown.

Divorce Granted to Mrs. Thomas by Judge R. E. Umbel

Special to The Courier.
UNIONTOWN, Aug. 19.—Judge Umbel, yesterday, handed down a divorce to Ida Helle Thomas against her husband, Isaac F. Thomas. Married 15 years ago last Easter, at Bruceton, W. Va., the couple little moved during their married life, but separated since the alleged cruel treatment and unfaithfulness, Frank P. Cotton, the master, recommended a divorce.

James C. Lyle, who represented the wife, said he had no confidence pending the obtaining of a judgment. Since he is unable to find sufficient security, he was released to give him an opportunity to compete with the order of the court in getting his wife to pay his wife a weekly allowance.

Carmine Baldetti, who has been in jail on a minor charge for some time, was ordered removed to the County Prison. She has two sick babies with her who are in no condition to be kept confined.

Finance Committee Will Meet Tonight to Audit Bills

The Finance Committee will meet tonight to go over the list of bills to be paid at tomorrow evening's session of Town Council. Owing to the financial straits, only the payroll and the electric bill will be paid. The Finance Committee will probably recommend that the election officers who served at the special election be paid for their day's work. Some of them left to go to the polls on Saturday, because there were two elections, but the Finance Committee can't see nothing that way.

Chittenden W. H. Thomas of the Finance Committee said there will not be money enough to meet the payroll. "There always has been even when I have been at the head of the Finance Committee," he said this morning. "We have always looked for enough ahead in making expenditures to have the payroll ready."

The Ideal Home.
We are just completing an ideal home for the man of limited means. It is a pretty cottage located on a bright foot lot on the east side of Sycamore street, between Newmyer and Davidson avenues.

The outside appearance is exceptionally pretty and the seven rooms, bath and kitchen, inside are of comfortable size and well arranged for the convenience of the particular housewife. The construction is stone foundation, first story stucco, second story shingles and the roof is slate. The cellar is cemented; house is piped for hot air heat, water and gas and is wired for electricity. The bath is fitted up complete. There are two porches, the front one is large and of a very attractive design. For terms, see Connellsville Construction Company, 102 First National Bank Building.

Can a Medicine Be a "Fake" that has lived and grown in popularity for thirty years, and demonstrated its worth by actual cures of female ills in thousands and thousands of American families?

Any fair minded, intelligent person will emphatically answer NO! Such a medicine is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, and its ever increasing popularity is due to actual merit alone.

ADVERTISING.

THE DAILY COURIER is the only daily newspaper in the Connellsville coke region which has the honesty and courage to print the exact number of copies it prints for distribution. Other papers print with some extravagance certain rates on application.

THE WEEKLY COURIER is the recognized organ of the Connellsville coke trade. It has special value as an industrial journal and an advertising medium for the coke industry.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office, Connellsville.

ADVERTISING.
DAILY, $1 per year; 10 per copy.

PAID TO AGENTS by carriers, but only to collectors with proper credentials.

And regularities are collected in the delivery office. Cables to homes by the carriers in Connellsville or our agents in other towns should be reported to this office at once.

WEDNESDAY EVE'G., AUG. 10, 1910.

SCOTTDALE.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, Aug. 10—Scottdale has a large representation of their Valentine Convention of Western Pennsylvanian Association at Carnegie this week. A large number of delegates went from here yesterday, accompanied by the Freemason's Drum Corps, a musical organization, who are bound to make another hit this year with the convention, on account of their musical enterprise. This is the only department probably that carries a band composed of the members.

Another number of delegates who went away yesterday were Past President M. Kelly, David Griffith, Roy Parker, Jessie Stoner, Horace Davis, Harry Stoner, John Warwick, Harry White, Harry Biddle, Howard and Charles Shupe, Robert Hill, Howard Higley, Frank Richards, Walter Haines, John McPherson, Edgar Brookman, Edward McPherson, Irvin Hall, Joseph Davis, the big boy of the convention. Thursday will be the annual meeting of the Scottdale boys here.

Penney's a Miss.

Dennis Behaven says that the Pittsburg weather but for so far as this section is concerned is as far as the rain has mixed their prediction 20 times three weeks and hit it correctly just once out of that time. Mr. Penney will have to do better than that, or the weather prediction would do better here. Mr. McAdoo is better weather prophet than that.

Off for Pleasure.

This station was a lively place this morning with the assembling crowd for the Midway. The fair is open.

A great array of baskets, a wagon load of ice cream and other features made the place look like a picnic. A little rain fell about train time but scared out no one.

Hail's Break Drought.

There was a heavy rain during the night that will go far toward breaking the drought conditions from which the country has been suffering for some weeks. It may be good enough to make a good corn crop if it keeps up. Many farmers have been dubious that the corn would not stand to be hit but if it might be total failure the dry conditions continue much longer. The dusty roads will be quite improved on account of the rain, and the streams which have been getting low will get a little water in them, enough to carry dust.

Hail's for Fun.

Mr. Mike Dolce, an Italian woman had Frank Higley, an employee at the Scottdale furnace arrested, on a charge of attempting to poison her while she was out on the railroad track, picking up coal a week ago. Higley was brought before Justice of the Peace C. H. Glery and was sent to Greenbush yesterday to await action of the court. Constable C. M. Higley accompanied him there. Higley declares that he is innocent.

Visiting in Ohio.

Miss May and Ethel Behaven are in Akron, Ohio, returning to their home for a couple of weeks, and are invited guests on the annual picnic given by the Goodyear Rubber Company to its employees at Oliver Lake.

Pittsburgh Water Line.

The Pittsburgh Water Company started this week on putting in the long look for service line on School street. The trench has all been dug for the line from Pittsburg street end and the pipe will be in by doing full duty to the citizens along the line. The pipe, who have been wanting water improvements for a long time.

West in Bunker Park.

The United Brethren Sunday school from Connellsville, organized by Mrs. Schaffner from Mt. Nebo and Everson and other friends went to Bunker Park this morning for their annual Sunday school outing. Next week the Scottsdale people will be here on Tuesday.

It's Improvement.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has put in three electric lights on lamp posts at the station here, the best station for freight traffic, any who travel by train, and train, and the same. Two of the lights are along the Reit building where the people from the southbound train alight and one is down along the platform. If the new light does not make out of the station, just far enough to be over and which will be responsible something for someone getting badly injured were only removed or changed along the north end of the station, everything is in the right switch coming in that place is unfortunate.

Marking Many Friends.

The Taylor Stock Company which is spending their second week here, is making many "The Blindfold" to large and pleased audience and this evening they will put on "The Vampires" a success of last week.

C. H. Inter's III.

C. H. Inter's III, at Hill Market street for more than a week and at this time is no better.

Church Council Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Church Council of the Trinity Lutheran church was held last evening in the church. The business of a routine nature was transacted.

THE DAWSON RACES.

Fir Crowd in Attendance Yesterday.
Betting Permitted.

The Dawson races opened auspiciously yesterday afternoon with ideal weather conditions. The only incident to mar the day's enjoyment was an accident during the second heat of the third race when Ion Bars, Princess Hal and Bonny Bell had a mixup at the turn coming up to the home stretch. Ion Bars tore a wheel of Princess Hal's sulky and Bonny Bell plowed into the wreckage. Willie W., poor last, took the lead and romped home. Princess Hal, on one wheel, took second money in this heat, Ion bars being placed third and Bonny Bell fourth.

Gambling on the races is permitted this year as usual, the bookmakers having a tent just off the track near the grandstand. A tacit understanding has been entered into between the County Detectives and the race track management to allow gambling at the meet. Officially the detectives do not know there is any betting. It is claimed that the attendance would be materially cut down and the races practically an impossibility unless gambling is permitted. Both County Detectives Alex McBeth and Frank McLaughlin were at the races yesterday.

The third race was the race of the day. Princess Hal was a 3 to 6 favorite when the race was called, but Ion Bars had enough backers to force Princess Hal down to an even money wager. At even money the Princess Hal backers came across so strong that the odds were run up to 1 to 2 again. Ion Bars was even money. The start of the first heat was a bad one, Princess Hal and Ion Bars both break from getting the word. This enabled Willie W. to romp away in the lead, with Bonny Bell close behind. The first lap found Willie W. still a dozen lengths in the lead but Ion Bars had something to say in the matter. Willie W. held the lead up the back stretch but coming home Ion Bars won by a nose. Princess Hal was third in this heat.

In the second heat Princess Hal was still a big favorite in spite of Ion Bars' splendid performance. Willie W. n. 7 to 1 shot won this heat. After that Princess Hal took the next three.

The first two races were straight heats. Gledstone taking the 2-20 trot with little trouble although Crown Jay was touted as the favorite. In the 2-25 trot there was nothing to it but Dr. Wilkes.

The crowd was a fair one for open ing day, which usually is not so large. Those who took in the sport yesterday were mostly horsemen with the long green to back their judgment. Some pocketed a number of bets while others slipped up and walked home. Among those present were Sheriff E. A. Johns and County Detectives Alex McBeth and Frank McLaughlin. They spent most of the afternoon in the spacious grandstand. The bookmakers had a busy day of it and the betting was unusually heavy for so light a crowd. The summary:

FIFTEEN DRASTIC DAYS OF PROFIT DEMOLITION!

Good Bye To Connellsville!

Read, reason these pertinent facts that show why your money will have far greater purchasing power than it has ever previously had, enabling you to secure the cream of America's choicest goods at Tremendous Reductions.

Sale Opens
Friday, August 12
At 10 a. m.,
For Complete Disposition of Entire Stock

Mace & Co. whose aggressive methods and prestige of eight years of extraordinary business success (the knowledge of which is a proverb in mercantile circles)—whose integrity and reliability is equivalent to the mark of "Sterling" Silver, is going out of business. Every available inch of space is crammed with summer and early fall shipments (that could not be cancelled in time), the brands of which are synonymous with the best produced in America. And particularly now, under instructions of Mace & Co., to close out regardless of former prices, the Saville Salvage Co. will commence what is undoubtedly the largest sale they have ever conducted in the twenty-five years of their history, extending to everyman, woman and child in Fayette and adjoining counties an opportunity unequalled in remarkable and legitimate savings. For we tell you here, boldly and frankly, without fear of contradiction, that your utmost expectations will be surpassed; that in many instances 20c, 30c and 40c will have the full purchasing power of a dollar, and that our end and aim is to dispose of every dollars' worth of goods embraced in the three mammoth floors of Fayette county's biggest and best known department store. We are making extraordinary preparations to handle the large crowds and we pray you to be patient as the doors will be closed at intervals to properly take care of the tide of buyers and to see that they are carefully waited on. A greatly augmented sales force will do the very best under the circumstances. And in conclusion, Mace & Co. authorize us to say that your money will be refunded without question or cavil, that the prices listed on this circular and on the goods at the store are absolutely less than you have ever paid before. This is, without doubt, the fullest and most liberal guarantee ever made by a standard house and one that protects you in every way. You will find good-bye prices on the green tags—noton five, or ten, or twenty articles, but on every article in every one of the various big departments.

A Sale That Means Extraordinary Savings To You.

HOLDS OUT HOPE FOR MAYOR GAYNOR.

He Has Fair Chance for Recovery Doctors Say.

IS MAKING A BRAVE FIGHT

An X-Ray Examination Locates the Bullet Near the Base of the Tongue. The Would-Be Assassin, Gallagher, Is Defiant.

GAYNOR REALIZES FIGHT

New York, Aug. 10.—Mayor Gaynor, target of a would-be assassin's bullet, is keenly alive to the nature of the trial he faces. Insisting that the physicians should tell him just how the score between himself and death stands, Mayor Gaynor hears their report and seems satisfied. He knows that he must match his strength against that of death and that the issue grows tenter with the passing of the hours.

As for Gallagher he hump his shoulders and sneers when he is told that the mayor is not dead. He puffs on his pipe in his cell and says:

"Well, I'm sorry I didn't kill him right off. I hope he cracks. I had to get him and if I didn't really got him that's not my fault."

New York, Aug. 10.—Major William J. Gaynor lies in St. Mary's hospital, Hoboken, where the bullet of James J. Gallagher, a disgruntled former employee of the city in the dock department, sent him, with his chances for life about evenly balanced.

No good and definitive word except that of hope can come from the physicians who are at his bedside until the passage of hours brings before their eyes evidence of the struggle between their patient's vitality and the invader of septicemia.

The mayor is not suffering greatly at present. He has not lost consciousness since Gallagher's revolver was discharged into the back of his neck on the promenade deck of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse.

Thanks Mayor Will Recover. Dr. Brown says privately that he thinks the mayor will recover.

The wound he received from the revolver of the frenzied political hungeron is serious. The bullet entered Mayor Gaynor's neck behind, a little to the right of the vertebrae and below the line of the ear, ranged downward and forward and lodged in a position near the base of the tongue which can't be definitely determined until an X-Ray photograph revealed the lodgment of the bullet.

The shooting of Mayor Gaynor came with terrible suddenness. He was standing on the deck of the ship which was to take him to Europe and a month's rest and vacation. About him were many members of his official family, there to bid him good-bye. President Pedro Montt of Chile, who was to be his fellow passenger, had not a half minute before gripped the mayor's head in a friendly salutation and the distinguished South American executive was where the amoke cloud from Gallagher's revolver swept across his face.

Show Surrounded by Friends. Mayor Gaynor was just in the middle of a little passage at repartee with Dr. Ernest G. Lederer, his head of the department of health. He had extended his hand to pat the com-missioner playfully in the ribs. Just at that instant a hand reached up from behind Mayor Gaynor's back and the muzzle of a short bulldog revolver was placed against his neck. Then came a report.

"You've stolen my bread and butter, damn you," exclaimed Gallagher, who would be assassinated.

Then a cry from Secretary Adams, "Oh, God, he's shot the mayor." Each of the men standing about the mayor wheel and saw Gallagher standing there with his arm just like revolver again. Adams jumped squarely at him and threw up the revolver hand. Just as he did so the weapon exploded and the bullet went whistling over the roof of the steamer abed.

Commissioner "Big Bill" Edwards launched his tremendous bulk full at the stunted figure which was wrestling with Adams. He caught Gallagher about the waist and bore him crashing the deck boards. There they rolled, Gallagher making frantic efforts to turn his pistol hand, which Adams still held, around into the face of his antagonist. Edwards, gradually bending the assassin's left arm down where he could put one knee on it, with his free hand raised blows on the upturned face beneath him.

Just then another shot sounded. Gallagher had twisted his pistol hand around under the grip Adams had put on it and he flicked the trigger in blind chance. The bullet tore through the left coat sleeve of Commissioner Edwards, seared the blood of that arm in a long welt and buried itself in the boards of the deck twenty feet away. Gallagher cursed in broken breath, but he was soon overpowered and put in handcuffs.

Sluggers as Ball Enters Neck. When the shot was fired into his neck Mayor Gaynor staggered slightly, then straightened up with a visible effort and tensed his lips with pain. Dr. Lederer, who happened to have his handkerchief in his hand, jumped to the mayor's side and wadded the handkerchief against the wound in the neck, blackened by the powder and spouting blood. At the same time he made as if to put a supporting arm under the mayor's shoulder, but Gaynor moved the hand away.

Adams ran to the mayor's side, the tears streaming from his eyes under the spur of excitement.

"Who did it, Adams, who did it?" asked the mayor in a weak voice. Adams tried to answer that he had only caught a glimpse of the assassin and did not know.

Then Dr. Smith of Brooklyn pushed his way through the crowd and ordered that the mayor should be taken to a stateroom.

Mayor Shows Nerve.

The mayor walked without faltering, his eyes straight ahead, his lips tightened. Rufus Gaynor, who had been standing on the opposite side of the boat when the shooting occurred and who had thus been spared the spectacle, came running into the stateroom, faltering broken sentences of query and of despair. The mayor put his hand on the young man's head and patted it.

"All right; all right," he whispered.

Dr. Strauch, the chief surgeon of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, and Dr. Henry Meyer, his assistant surgeon, were in Mayor Gaynor's room almost at the same time that he himself arrived there.

"You will have to go to the hospital, Mr. Gaynor," said Dr. Strauch. Mayor Gaynor nodded his head in a movement of dissent.

"I wish to continue the voyage," said he brokenly.

"I am sorry, Mr. Gaynor," said the ship's surgeon, "but I will not be responsible for you on this ship. You must leave the ship. Perhaps it is a question of saving your life."

Taken to Hospital.

It was a work of emotion to carry the mayor down the gangplank. As the stretcher bearer moved with infinite pains from cleat to cleat, Mayor Gaynor feebly waved his right hand over the edge of the stretcher and tried to call in a strong voice, which was not strong.

"Sorry I can't go with you," he said.

The trip to the hospital was made as swiftly as the rough cobbles of the street would allow. During the trip to St. Mary's Gaynor said nothing, his lips moved two or three times, but no sound issued from them. He remained fully conscious.

Washington Disturbed.

Washington, Aug. 10.—Political and official circles were profoundly disturbed over the news of the attempted assassination of Mayor Gaynor. Highest offices received the information first over the ticker from New York. Then followed a perfect shower of inquiries from officers of the government addressed to newspaper offices and other usual sources of information.

MESSAGES OF SYMPATHY

Four in on Mayor Gaynor—Taft and Roosevelt Express Sorrow.

New York, Aug. 10.—President Taft and Theodore Roosevelt were the first to send messages of sorrow and sympathy which poured in from all sides from persons all over the country, as the news of the shooting of Mayor Gaynor spread.

President Taft sent this telegram to the mayor:

"I am greatly shocked to hear of the outrage assault upon you. I am very glad that the wound inflicted on you is not serious. I earnestly hope and pray your recovery may be rapid."

Colonel Roosevelt sent the following telegram to Acting Mayor J. P. Mitchell: "I am shocked and horrified beyond measure. Please send me information."

GALLAGHER CALM.

Perfectly Willing to Tell All About Shooting Gaynor.

New York, Aug. 10.—When James Gallagher, assailant of Mayor Gaynor, had been searched and pedigree entered upon the blotter at the police station, he was taken across the hall to the courtroom of Recorder John J. Moaven. Commissioner Edwards appeared as a complainant against him, charging him with the crime of atrocious assault with intent to kill. William J. Gaynor.

Gallagher was almost flippant in his answers to the police. He said that he was perfectly willing to make any kind of a statement that they wanted.

The police officers took him at his word and they had a stenographer take down the voluntary statement made to them by Gallagher. This is the statement:

"My name is James J. Gallagher. I live at 440 Third Avenue, New York City. I am fifty-eight years of age. I was born in Ireland and I am married.

"My occupation is watchman in the department of docks and ferries of New York City.

"I came over to Hoboken about 9:30

FIVE KILLED

When Train Smashes Into Auto at Cape May.

Cape May, N. J., Aug. 10.—Five persons were crushed to death when an express train on the Pennsylvania railroad dashed into an automobile at Mill Lane crossing, on the West Jersey and Seashore railroad.

The Dead.

Frederick W. Feldner, Mrs. Frederick W. Feldner, Fritz Mergenthaler, Mrs. Fritz Mergenthaler, M. Jones, chauffeur. All are from Baltimore.

The express struck the automobile between the wheels and threw it and all the occupants clear of the tracks. All were instantly killed and badly cut and bruised.

Mr. Mergenthaler was the son of Otto Mergenthaler, the inventor of the Mergenthaler Linotype.

Bufano Files Petition.

MT. PLEASANT.

MT. PLEASANT, Aug. 10.—The New Pinto company of Mountaineer, W. Va., in charge of the local street paving work, has been constantly at work on the paving of the streets and the grading is completed and nearly all of the curbing laid on South Diamond street. Work has already been started on the Bridgeport street grading. Mt. Pleasant is rapidly improving in the progress and so far has encountered no difficulties, such as defective water pipes, sewerage pipes and other things which would delay its work.

Mr. Pinto is a man of great energy and this makes the grading very easy compared with the work Mr. Pinto done here last year as the beds of Eagle street and College Avenue were very rocky and the operations were very difficult.

The police removed Gallagher's letters and papers from his room and took them to the Third Avenue detective branch. No one was permitted to see the letters except the detective.

Fishing Party to Chesapeake Bay Starting Today

A party composed of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kurtz, Miss Ella Kurtz, Mrs. Curtis Stillwagon, J. Fred Kurtz, J. L. Kurtz and J. C. Kurtz left today over the Baltimore & Ohio at 9:50 A. M. for Tidewater's Island, Md., located 60 miles from Baltimore, in the Chesapeake Bay.

The fishing at Tidewater's Island is reported to be especially fine, and those composing the foregoing party expect to spend several weeks very enjoyably in angling for both deep-sea and fresh water fish.

It is likely that several of the crowd will go to Atlantic City for a few days on their way home.

Jim Spraig Dies of Wounds at the Hospital

James Spraig, the colored man, injured Monday afternoon by falling from the third story of the Marquette Apartments, on North Pittsburg street, died yesterday afternoon at 4:15 at the Cottage St. hospital. Confinement of the brain was given as the cause of death.

When brought to the hospital, about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, on Monday, Spraig was still conscious, but about midnights slipped into a state of coma from which he never rallied. The man was taken in charge by Under-taker J. L. Stader, and prepared for burial.

A Vacation for Secretary J. Fred Kurtz

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, it was voted that the Secretary, J. Fred Kurtz, be given a vacation of several weeks during August, and it was decided that the rooms of the Chamber be closed during his absence.

Miss Camilla Munk, the stenographer for the Chamber, will also take a vacation at the same time. The Secretary will be kept informed as to any matters of interest or importance during his absence, in order that same may be looked after by him at a distance, if necessary.

Several of the men exclaimed. "But," Orme went on, "I did not take them from the excellency. On the contrary, his agents have for some time been using every device to steal them from me. They have failed, and now he is making a last attempt by trying to persuade you that they belong to him."

"I submit that this smart answer does not satisfy my charge," cried the minister.

"Do you really wish to go further?" demanded Orme. "Would you like me to explain to these men what those papers really mean?"

"If you do that, you betray my country's secret."

Orme turned to the others. "His excellency and I are both guests here," he said. "Leaving his official position out of the question, my word must go as far as bis. I assure you that he has no claim at all upon the papers in my pocket."

"That is not true!"

The minister's words exploded in a sharp staccato.

"In this country," said Orme, calmly, "we know men down for words like that. In Japan, perhaps, the lie can be passed with impunity."

"Gentlemen, I ask that Mr. Orme be detained," exclaimed the minister furiously.

"I will not be detained," said Orme. The other men were whispering among themselves, and at last one of them stepped forward as spokesman. "This is a serious matter for the club," he said. "I suggest, Mr. Orme, that we go to the library"—he glanced significantly at the other groups on the veranda—"where no one can overhear us, and talk the matter over quietly."

"But that will exactly fit in with his scheme," exclaimed Orme, heatedly. "He knows that, in the interests of our own country—he hazards this—I must be at a certain place before midnight. He will use every means to delay me—even to charging me with that."

"What is that?" Bessie Wallingham's voice broke in upon them. "Is any one daring to accuse Bob Orme?"

In her low, gray silk motor cloak, with the filmy chiffon veil bound about her hat, she started them, like an apparition.

The spokesman says that Mr. Orme has stolen some papers from him. "Then his excellency is at fault," said Bessie, promptly. "I sought for Mr. Orme. He is Tom's best friend, and Tom is one of the governors of the club. Come, Bob."

She turned away decisively, and Orme recognized the advantage she had given him, and strode after her. Voices behind him told him he gathered that the men were holding the minister back by main force.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Goal.

The chauffeur was opening the door of the waiting car. It was a black car, a car with a strangely familiar line. Orme started. "Where did that come from?" he demanded.

Bessie smiled at him. "That is my surprise for you. My very dear friend, whom you so much desire to see, telephoned me here this evening, and asked me to spend the night with her. Instead of returning to Chicago, she promised to send her car for me. It was long enough coming, goodness knows, but if it had appeared sooner, I should have gone before you arrived."

Orme understood. The girl had telephoned to Bessie while he waited there on La Salle street. She had planned a meeting that would identify him with full knowledge of her name and place. And the lateness of the car in reaching Arradale was unquestionably owing to the fact that it had not set out on its errand until after the girl reached home and gave her chauffeur the order. Orme welcomed this evidence that she had got home safely.

Bessie jumped lightly into the tonneau, and Orme followed. The car glided from the grounds. Eastward it went, through the pleasant, rolling farming country, that was wrapped in the beauty of the starry night. They crossed a bridge over a narrow creek. "You would hardly think," said Bessie, "that this is so-called north branch of the Chicago river."

"I would believe anything about that river," he replied.

She laughed nervously. "I know that she was suppressing her natural interest in the scene she had witnessed on the veranda; yet, of course, she was expecting some explanation. "Bessie," he said, "I am sorry to have got into such a tussle there at the club. The Japanese minister was the last man I wanted to see."

She did not answer.

"Perhaps your friend—whom we are now going to visit—will explain things a little," he went on. "I can tell you only that I had in my pocket certain papers which the Jap would have given much to get hold of. He tried it by accusing me of stealing them from him. It was very awkward."

"I understand better than you think," she said, suddenly. "Don't you see, you big stupid, that I know where we are going? That tell me something. I can put two and two together."

"Then I needn't try to do any more explaining of things I can't explain."

"Of course not. You are forgiven all. Just think, Bob; it's nearly a year since you stood up with Tom and me."

"That's so!"

"How time does go! See—as the car turned at a crossing—we are going northward. We are bound for the village of Wimmetka. Does that tell you anything?"

"Nothing at all," said Orme, striving vainly to give the Indian name a place in his mind.

On they sped. Orme looked at his watch. It was half-past ten.

"We must be nearly there," he said.

"Yes, it's only a little way, now."

They were going eastward again, following a narrow dirt road. Suddenly the chauffeur threw the brakes on hard. Orme and Bessie, thrown forward by the sudden stopping, clutched the sides of the car. There was a crash, and they found themselves in the bottom of the tonneau.

Orme was unharmed. "Are you all right, Bessie?" he asked.

"All right." Her voice was cheery. He leaped to the road. The chauffeur had descended and was hurrying to the front of the car.

"What was it?" asked Orme.

"Some one pushed a wheelbarrow into the road just as we were coming."

"A wheelbarrow?"

"Yes, sir. There it is."

Orme looked at the wheelbarrow. It was wedged under the front of the car. He peered off into the field at the left. Dimly he could see running figures, and he hastily climbed the rail fence and started in pursuit.

It was a hard sprint. The running man was fast on his feet, but his speed did not long serve him, for he stumbled and fell. He did not rise, and Orme, coming up, for the moment supposed him to be stunned.

Bending over, he discovered that the prostrate man was panting hard, and digging his hands into the turf.

"Get up!" commanded Orme.

The man got to his knees and, turning, raised supplicating hands.

"Poritol!" exclaimed Orme.

"On, Mr. Orme, spare me. It was an accident." His face worked convulsively. "I—I—" Something like a sob escaped him, and Orme again found himself divided between contempt and pity.

"What were you doing with that wheelbarrow?"

Poritol kept his frightened eyes on Orme's face, but he said nothing.

"Well, I will explain it. You followed the car when it started for Arradale. You waited here, found a wheelbarrow, and tried to wreck us. It is further evidence of your comic equipment that you should use a wheelbarrow."

Poritol got to his feet. "You are mistaken, don't Mr. Orme. I—I—"

Orme smiled grimly. "Stop," he said. "Don't explain. Now I want to know what you are doing with that wheelbarrow."

Poritol kept his frightened eyes on Orme's face, but he said nothing.

"Well, I will explain it. You followed the car when it started for Arradale. You waited here, found a wheelbarrow, and tried to wreck us. It is further evidence of your comic equipment that you should use a wheelbarrow."

Poritol got to his feet. "You are mistaken, don't Mr. Orme. I—I—"

Orme smiled grimly. "Stop," he said. "Don't explain. Now I want to know what you are doing with that wheelbarrow."

Poritol kept his frightened eyes on Orme's face, but he said nothing.
